Mason, Knight serve goals of education

Dr. Charles C. Mason, superintendent of Tulsa Public Schools, and Dr. Raymond W. Knight, principal of Will Rogers High School, represent many years of experience and dedication, necessary to an excellent system. Both men have dedicated themselves to the improvement of learning opportunities for Tulsa youth.

"The mark of a dedicated man is that he demonstrates enthusiasm for his beliefs," Dr. Knight tells his students.

And his belief in an excellent education for all young people has earned him respect from students and parents as well as colleagues. In his twenty years as principal, Dr. Knight has created an atmosphere of pride for Rogers' traditions. He has advocated leadership training in the school program and upheld high scholastic standards.

Dr. Charles C. Mason and the elected members of the school board deal with the many problems of management, finance, and community relations within the school system. A new ruling to allow flexibility of transfers within the system was initiated this year, permitting students to make use of all educational opportunities.

Dr. Mason and Dr. Knight confer on matters concerning students at "Will on the Hill."

Dr. Raymond W. Knight, principal, arrives at school.

Guidance Staff helps Ropers decide future

When the Lariat reporters consulted the guidance staff on scholarships, mini-skirts, school pride, and opinions of the Rogers student body, the answers were as many and varied as the counselors themselves. Generally, however, they agreed that scholarships are available to those who will work for them, skirts are entirely too short, and that Ropers are proud of their school and are doing something about it.

On scholarships, counselors informed students that determination could be as important as grades in recommendation for scholarships.

The guidance staff helped students solve problems—personal as well as educational. As adults guiding students to a better future, they also offered friendship to all Ropers.

Mr. Smith and Mr. McGinty, assistant principals, discuss the administrative requirements of a high school with an enrollment of approximately 2,600.

Some students have 'worlds' of knowhow

Creativity is the keyword in the fine arts department, which includes courses in speech, homemaking, art, and music.

One person responsible for creating Round-Up, the annual all-school talent show, is Miss Doris Niles, coordinator of the speech department. She also creates new and unusual ways of teaching.

"We are quite informed in here, you know," Miss Niles says frequently of her classes, because her students study related subjects all the way from campaign propaganda to the communication gaps created by language barriers

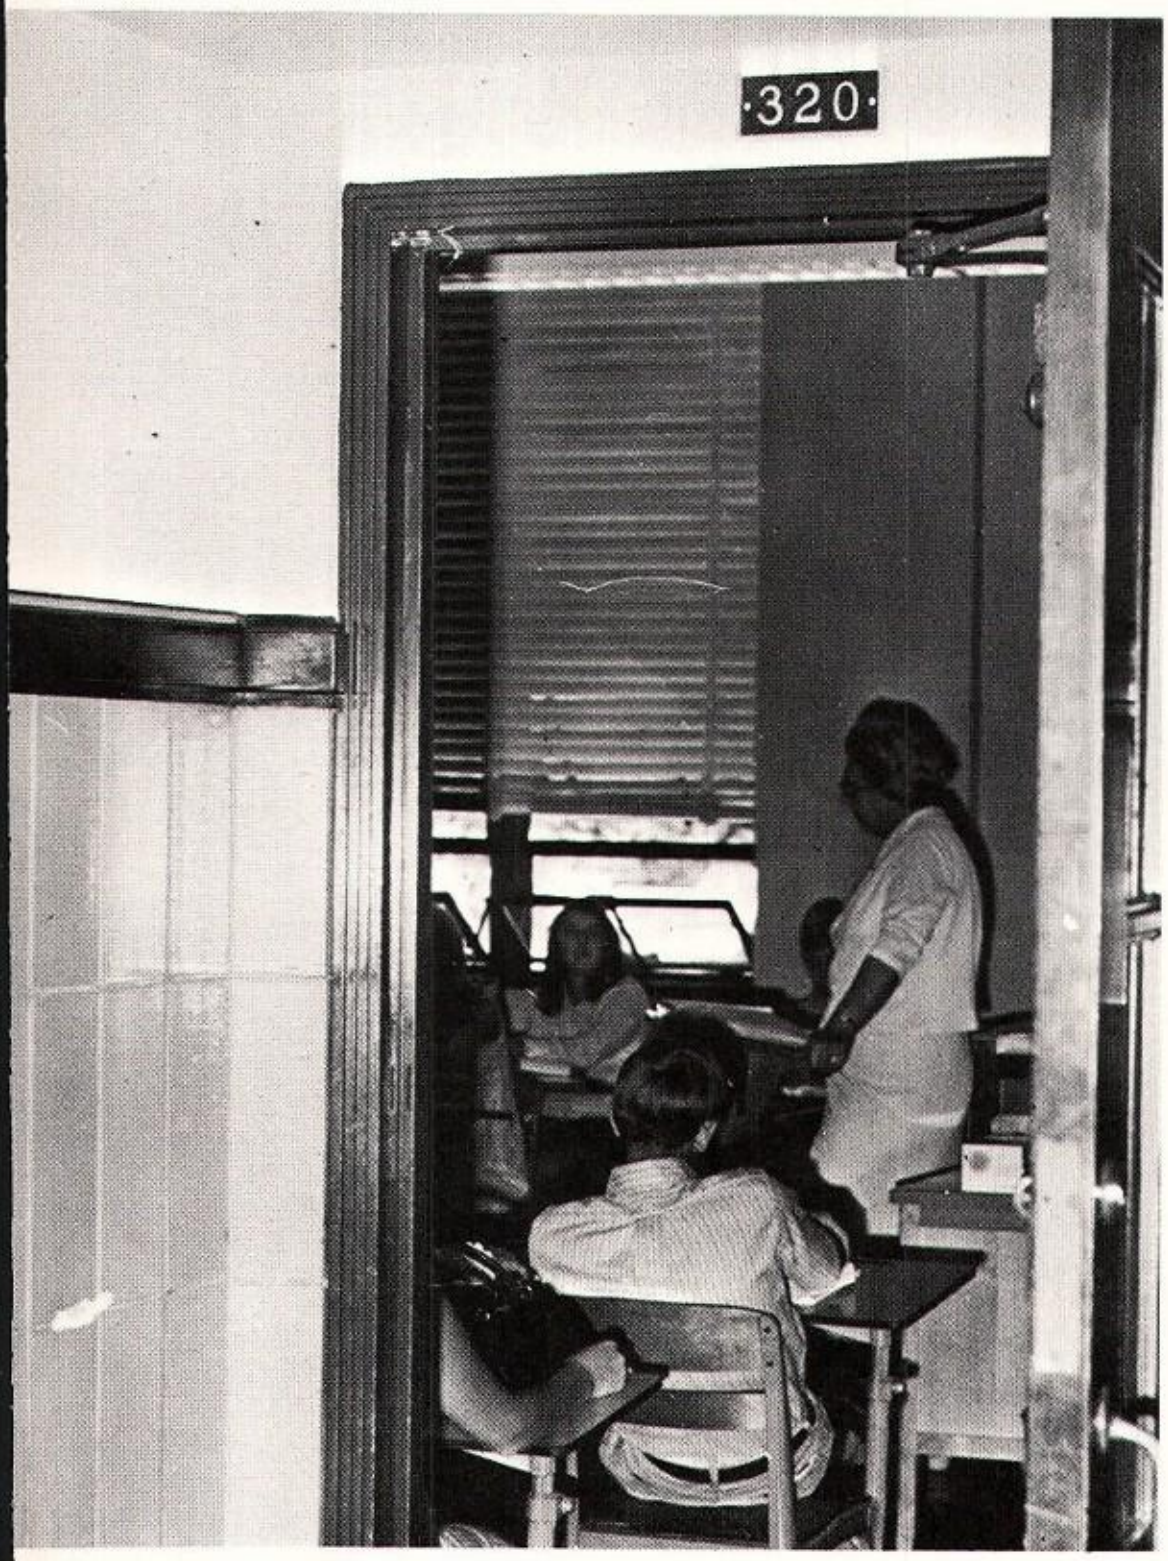
The sewing classes of the homemaking department showed their creativity in the gowns they designed for the future Miss Will Rogers XXXI and her attendants. Besides presenting the annual spring fashion show, the classes decorated a hall showcase with their creations.

Mrs. Georgiana White headed the Art Department which offered classes in basic art, fashion and interior design, painting and composition, and commercial art. The students did story illustrations used by the library department and portraits of the boy and girl of the month. Their work was displayed in hall showcases, and they were urged to enter such exhibits as the Secondary School Art Show and the Young Talent in Oklahoma Contest.

The spirit and enjoyment which the vocal and instrumental departments created in the special shows, tours, football games, and assemblies were a traditional part of Will Rogers.

"Muchos pesos please," says Mr. Brown, speech teacher, to fishable Jerry Coppler.

Mrs. Geer, new vocal music director, leads Chorale in a sing-along.



"Now, class, we all know that Shakespeare did not write a symphony or paint the Sistine Chapel, don't we?" asks Mrs. LaPota as she lectures fifth hour.

Mrs. Edwards, Latin teacher and NHS sponsor, talks to Jim Turner about soldiers and scholarships.

All languages build bridges to knowledge

Additions to English department this year were Creative Writing, Sociology, and the Humanities.

"Humanities is the study of the arts in order to discover what it is to be a human being," commented Mrs. Margherite LaPota, Humanities teacher. The first unit was an exploration of man's search for Utopia.

Mrs. Martha Edwards' Creative Writing class offered new freedom of expression for enthusiastic writers.

Teachers in the foreign language department conducted their courses with specific goals in mind. The department included courses in German, Latin, Spanish, French, and Russian.

"Latin teaches students discipline (a Latin derivative)," explained Mrs. Edwards. "It helps them develop extensive vocabularies and enables them to comprehend other languages more easily."

Math, science blast off, soar into space age

Because of emphasis on programs to keep pace with the space age, Rogers math courses challenge the student to think—to become involved in his studies.

Mr. Tony Lutman's math classes receive the stimulus necessary to communicate, as well as to understand math.

He uses a paragraph, worthy of Emerson, to prompt students to translate their feelings into written words. Math experts, he believes, should be able to express their ideas to laymen.

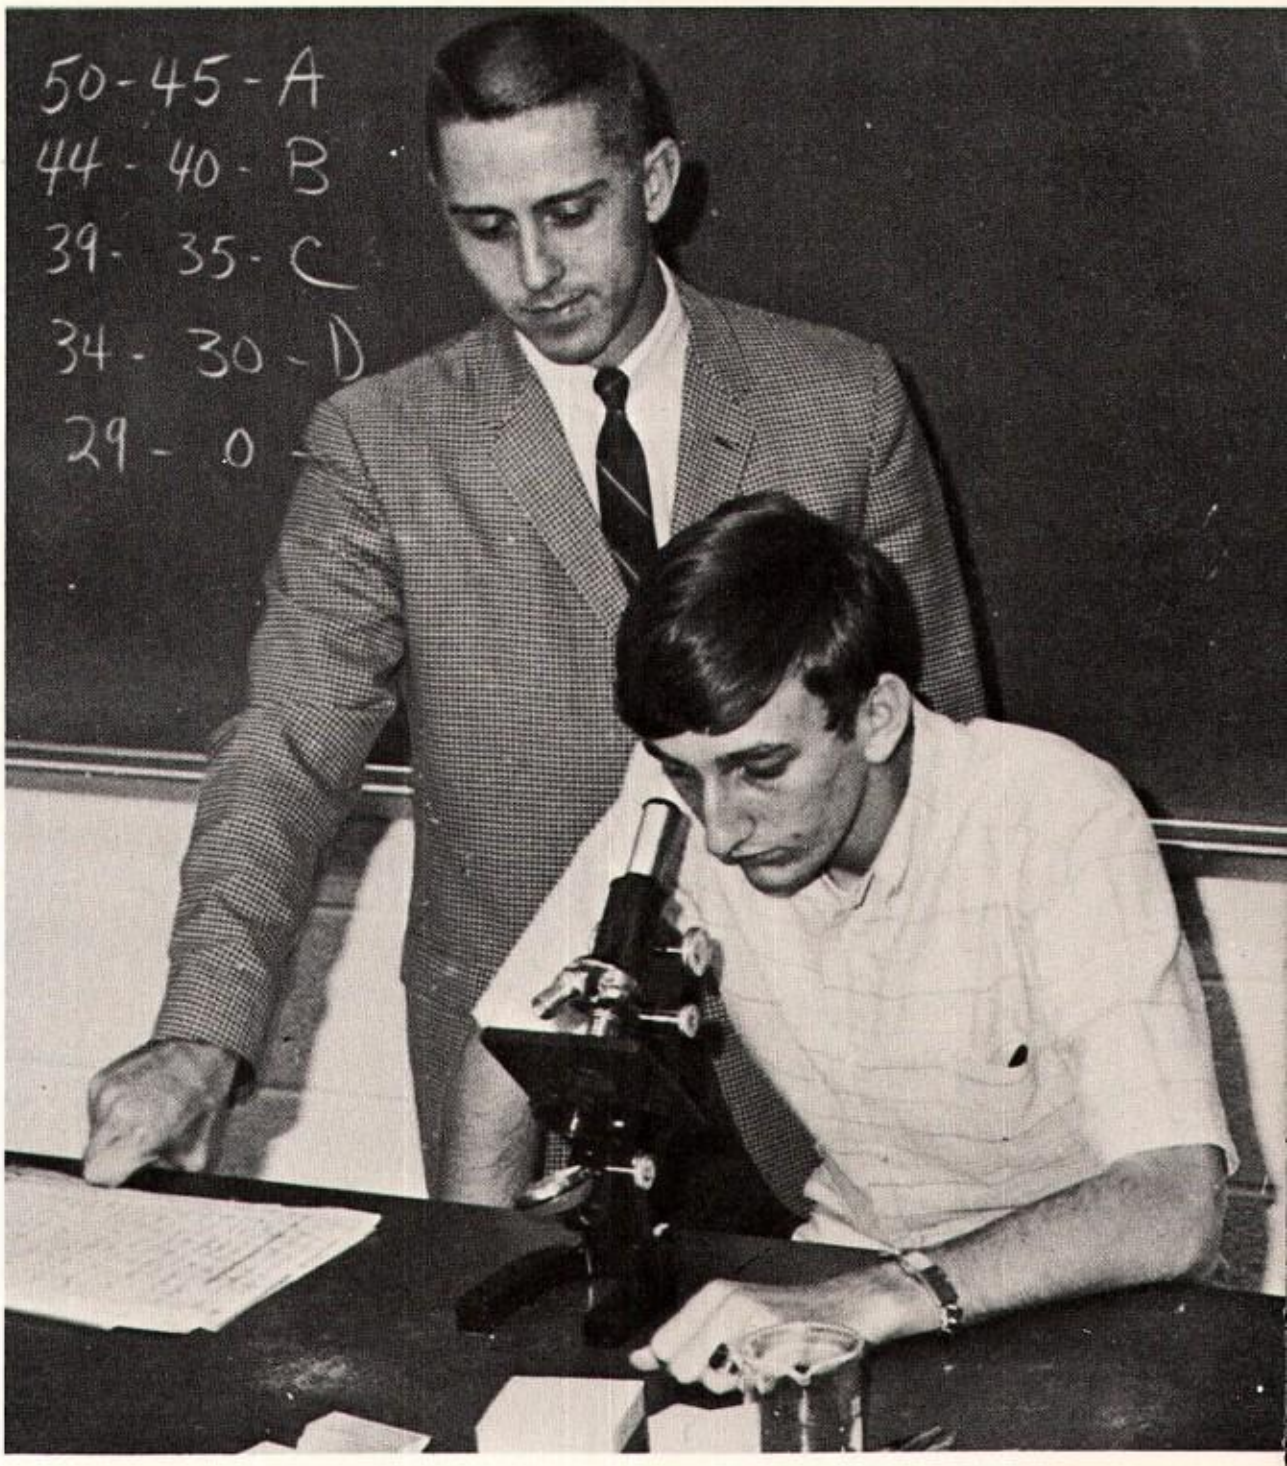
He also spiced up his courses with "groovy little things" like the twelve ball problem. (One ball is either heavier or lighter than the others. The trick is to determine, in three weighings, which one it is.)

Basic math courses with college preparatory classes of math analysis and college algebra are guidelines for budding engineers, potential computer programmers, and interested mathematicians.

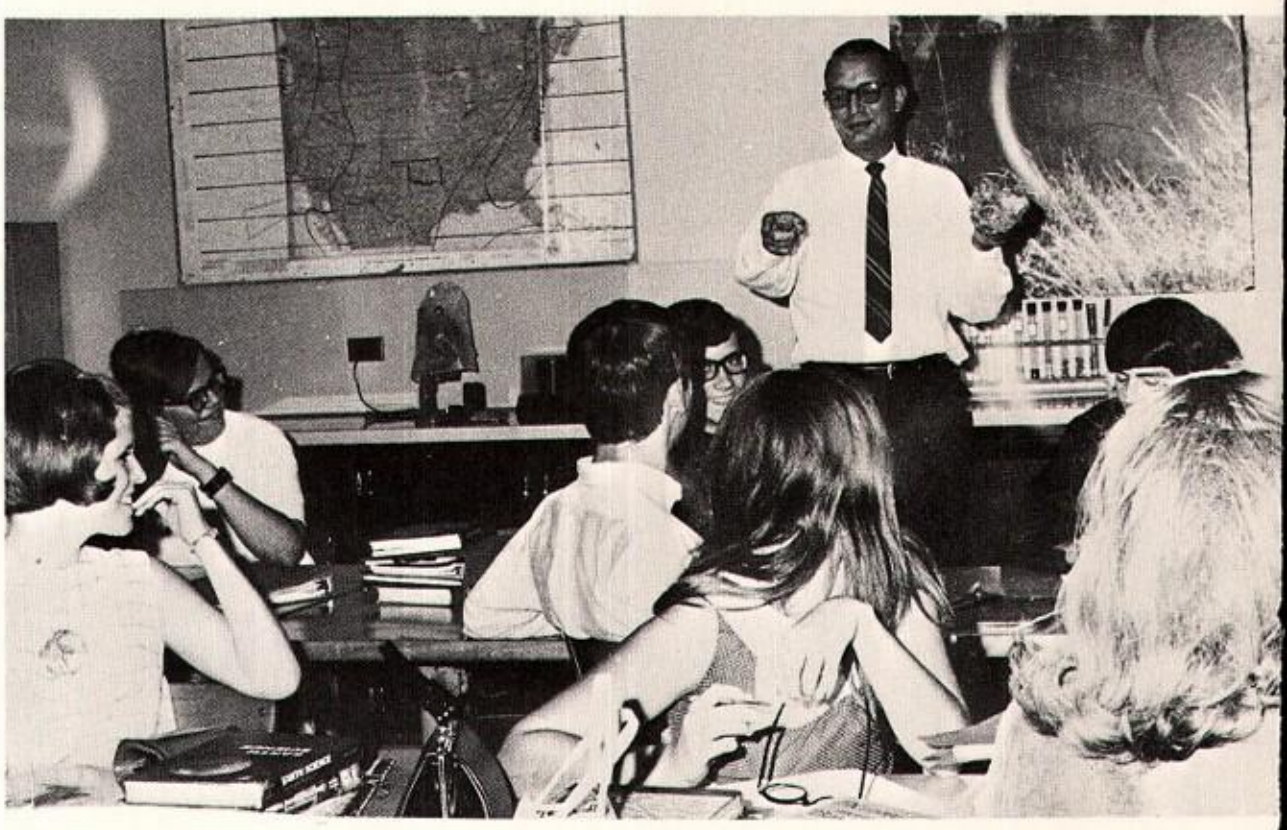
Mr. John Hurn, science teacher, gives students a background of sociology, humanity, and good morals as well as a thorough knowledge of the human physical functions.

"Physiology is," explained Mr. Hurn, "about all life—the physiological, moral, and spiritual aspects."

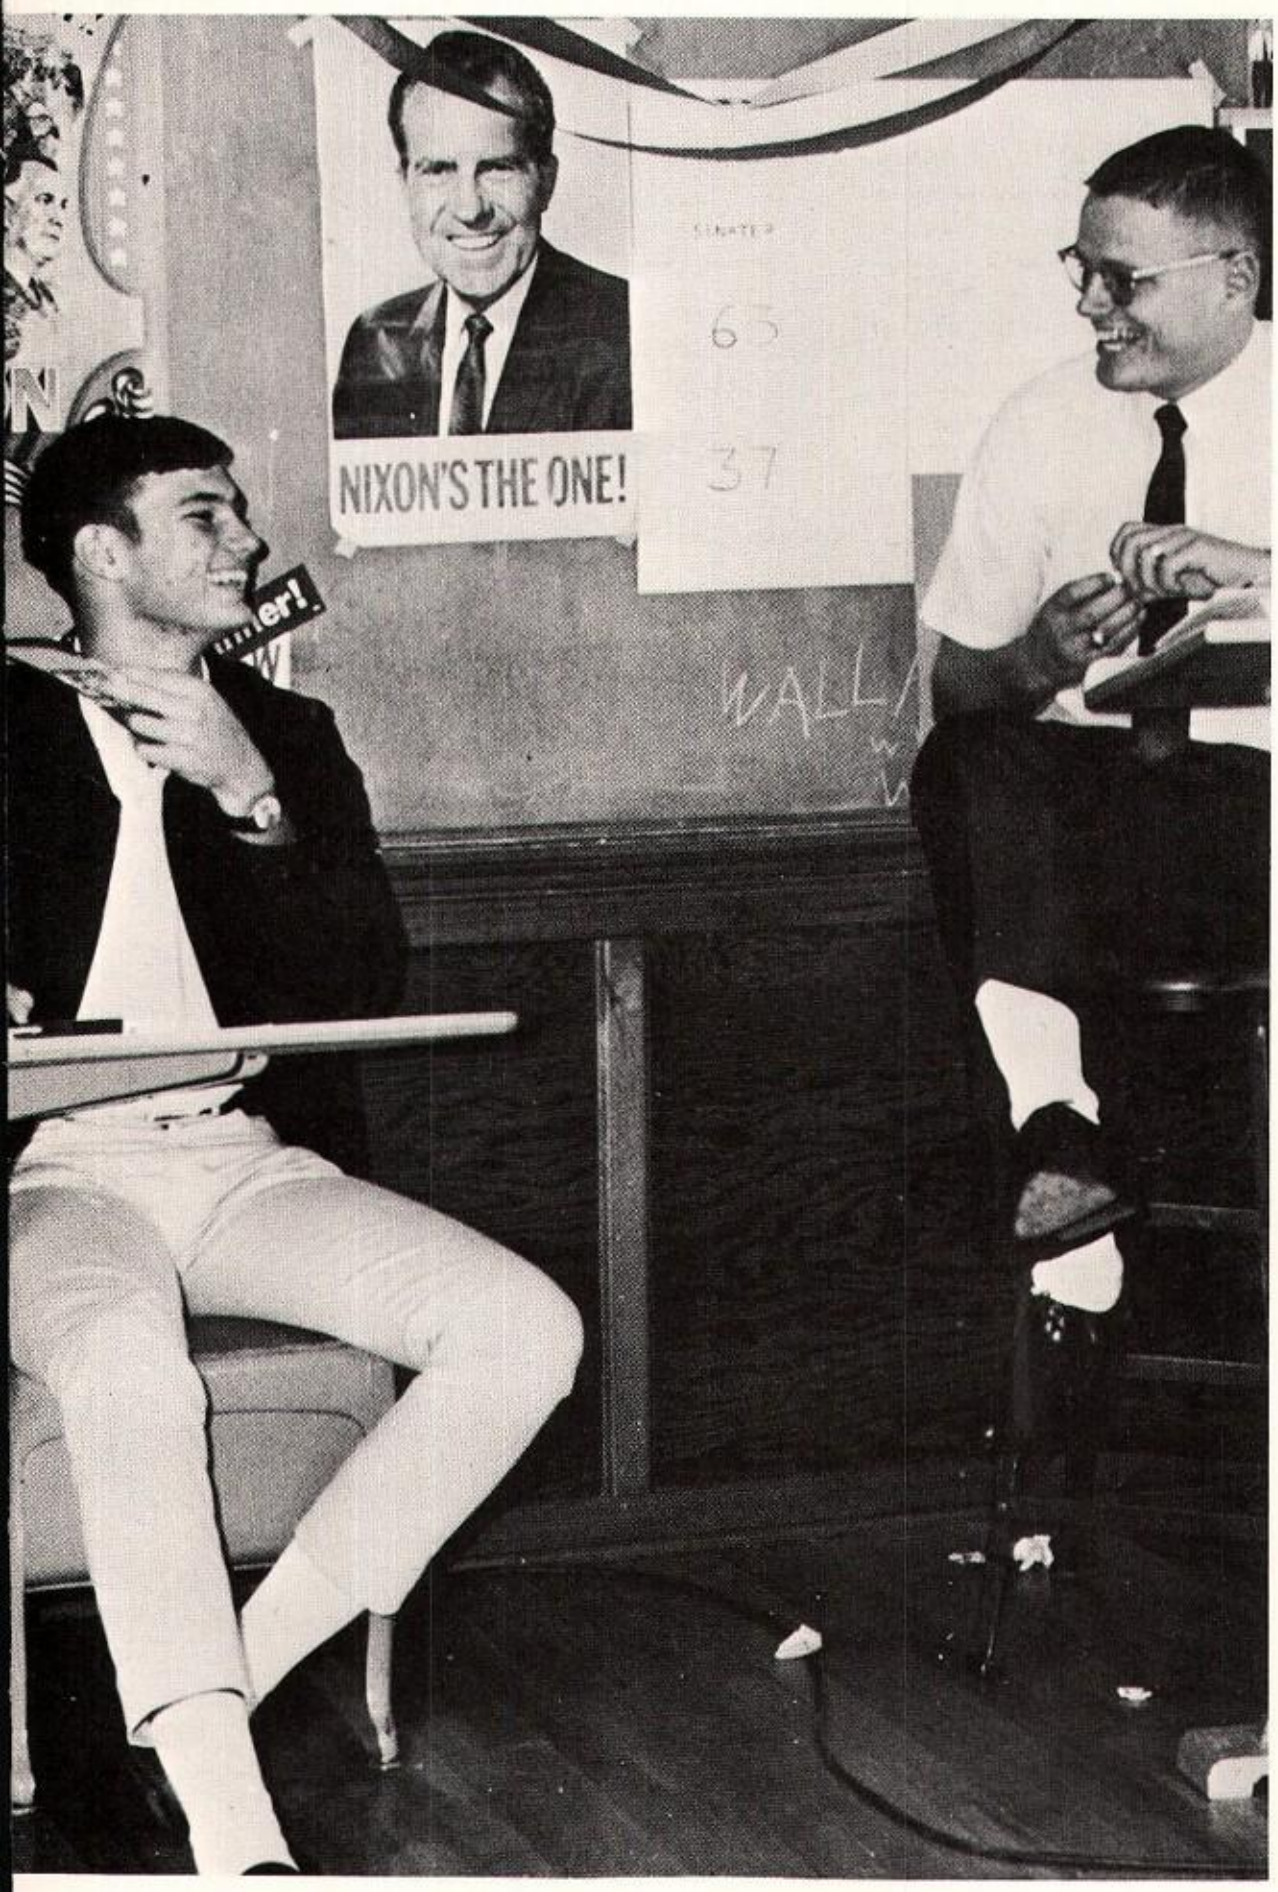
Mrs. Thelma Arnold coordinated the science department courses which included chemistry, physiology, earth science, biology, and physics.



Mr. Lingenfelter tells Steve Long to open his eyes and notice the world around him.



"Let he who has all the right answers cast the first stone," quotes Mr. Carlson as he prepares to have a showdown with his earth science class.



Hubert who?" Mr. Austin asks Randy Meador in a cordial government class discussion.

New methods modernize English, history

Combining the communications skills of English and literature with the study of history was the goal of a new sophomore course this year. According to Miss Mary Ann Parker, history teacher, and Mrs. Judy Gandrus, English teacher, students were able to study the American man as a human being by coordinating American literature and history.

"The main idea of this program is understanding through past experience," concluded Mrs. Parker.

As their first unit, Mr. George Austin's history classes followed the political campaigns. They spent a month studying the three presidential candidates and the Oklahoma Senatorial candidates, learning election procedure and campaign methods.

Working on a personal level the history courses hope to give students a better understanding of man's place in the world both past and present.

"I said punch firmly, not release your brute strength," Miss Doolin tells senior Vicki Gould.

"... and this is the self-destruct lever," Mr. Salter tells Pam Wright.

Students gain skill in 'world of business'

"A certain small group of students desire to go to work before they graduate," commented Mr. Frank Miller, head of the industrial cooperative training program. In this course students reasearch numerous fields ranging from restaurant work to painting. "Just as a chemistry student has laboratory work, my students also have laboratory work—they have a job in their chosen field."

The goal of this course is to enable the student to go to work immediately upon graduating," explained Mr. Miller.

The Business Education department is headed by Mr. Paul Salter, and includes job training, office education, typing, and bookkeeping.

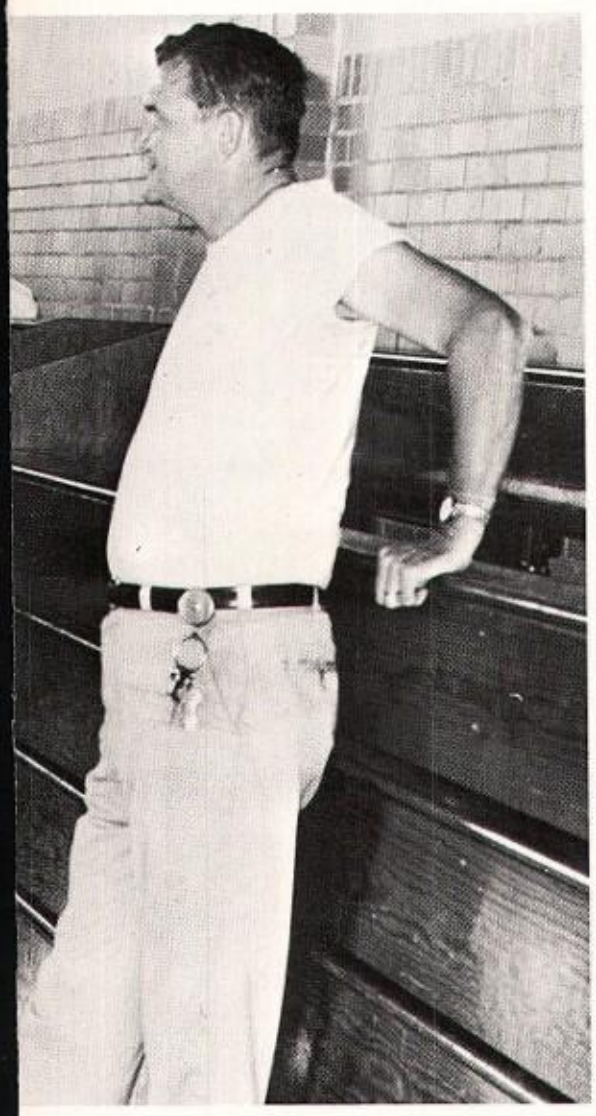
The combined programs of business education and job training provide skills and experience that give students a headstart in future vocations.

"And if you put your finger in here, it will hurt!" Mr. Paolucci warns two very observant pupils.

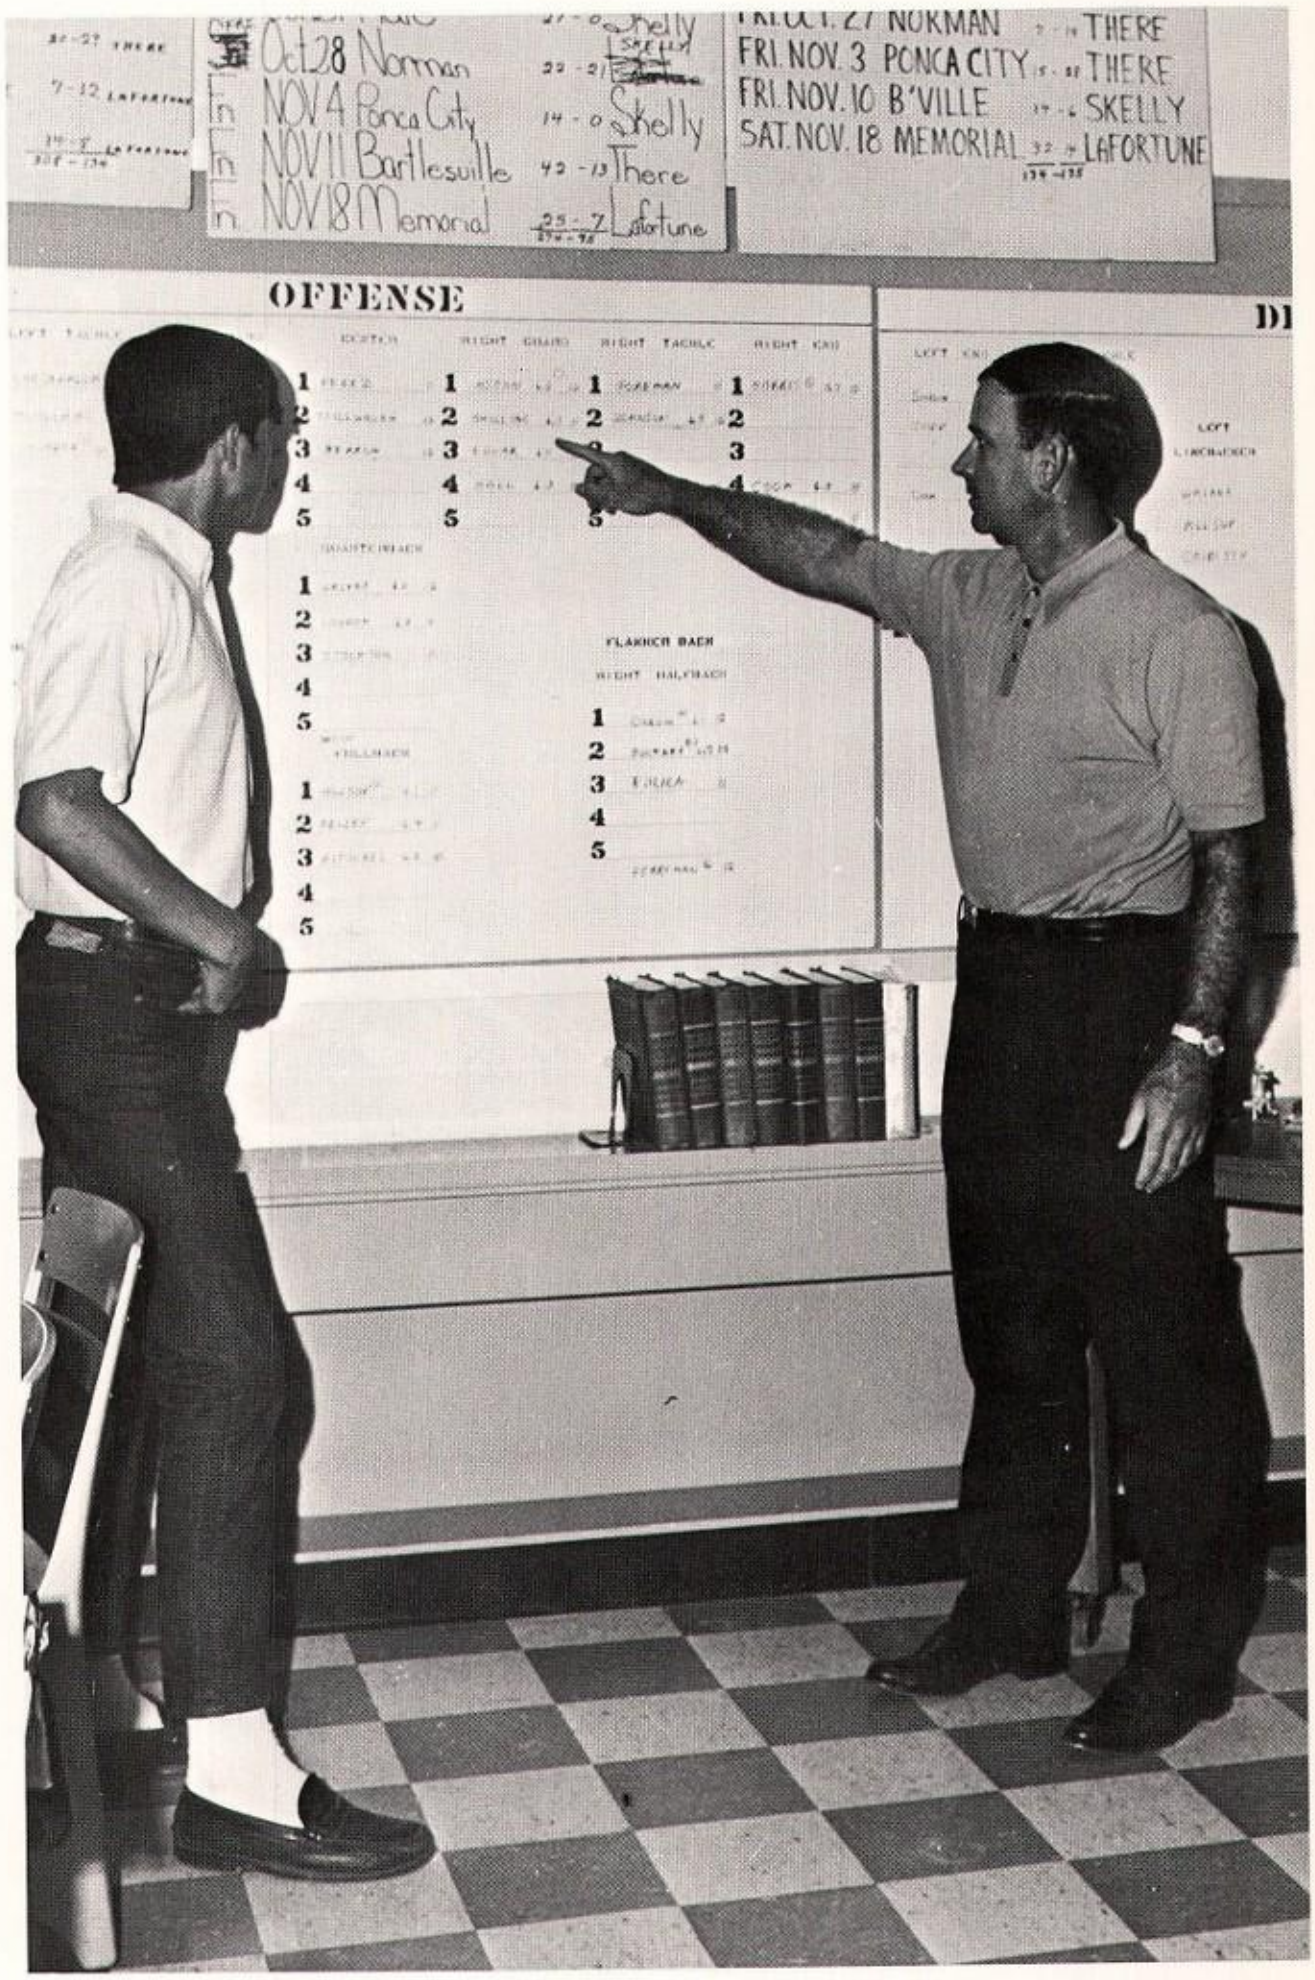
Physically fit Ropers ready to live, learn

The Physical Education Department provides a complete sports program for all students. Boys practice calisthenics, football, basketball and softball. The girls participate in modern dance, swimming, field hockey and gymnastics. Although gym is required for only one year, students may elect it the entire three years.

Varsity athletics is the goal of most interested sophomore boys. Girls can join in intra-class competition.



"All right boys, this is what is known as a gymnasium," explains Coach Hurst.



"You have got to use your 'right guard,' Norman," says coach Eubanks to Norman DeRoin.

Special staff keeps 'world' revolving well

It takes many special skills to keep a school functioning well.

The "paper work" of the secretarial staff kept the lines of communication open for all members of the Rogers team.

Besides the regular hot lunches, a short order "speedline" was promoted and manned by the cooks. The innovation helped to feed a larger number of Ropers in a shorter amount of time.

Custodians, long noted for an "intensified pride" in keeping a clean, orderly building, were pleased to find the student council sponsoring a P.R.I.D.E. contest urging Ropers to become anti-litter bugs.

Altogether, faculty, administrators, and special staff combined skills to provide education for the largest student body ever enrolled at Rogers.

Student body honors spirit; picks Debbie

Debbie Fleak was named Miss Will Rogers XXX in an all-school coronation. Bill Perryman crowned the Queen in the formal coronation. Sam Meyers was master of ceremonies.

During halftime activities at the Edison game, escort Mike Thurber put the traditional gold football helmet on Debbie's head. Stirrups presented her with a trophy and bracelet.

Senior attendants and escorts were Connie Johnson and David Gibbons, Diane White and Mark Walker. Robert Taylor and Danny Cheshawalla escorted juniors Cathy Hess and Gale Williams. Sophomores Marsha Becton and Sharon Davis were escorted by Tommy Aston and Gary Simpson.

Debbie, a National Honor Society member, was A-squad cheerleader this year and also served on both the Senior and Round-Up Boards.

Band queen finalists, Peggy Haeberle, Margo Raimond, Sue Hodge, Debbie Wilson, Karen Lawson, Janet LaForge, Jill Krumme, Peggy Wilson, Roz Rains, and Nancy McClure exhibit versatile musical talents as well as the charm and personality for which they were chosen.

Debbie Wilson reigns over Roper bands

Debbie Wilson was chosen Will Rogers Band Queen for 1968-1969 in the spring of her junior year. She was crowned by Band Captain Buster Kelso during an all-school assembly.

"It was a remarkable experience and an honor which I did not expect to receive," exclaimed Debbie.

Along with her attendants, Peggy Haeberle and Margo Raimond, Debbie represented the Roper band at football games, the annual fair parade, and Christmas Parade.

The other finalists were Sue Hodge, Jill Krumme, Janet LaForge, Karen Lawson, Nancy McClure, Roz Rains and Peggy Wilson.

The student body nominated 20 girls from the class of 1969. Band members narrowed the contestants to ten finalists. The students selected the queen and attendants from these ten.

Cheerleaders demonstrate Roper spirit

"Oom-on-gow-wow! the Ropers got the power," cheers Paul Mehl, head cheerleader after returning from the Southern Methodist University clinic in Dallas.

"The work was hard, but the effort paid off when we won three blue ribbons in daily competition and the spirit stick in final competition," said Roger Pointer.

The football cheerleaders were elected last spring in an all-school election. The squad practiced twice a day during June and July on six cheers to take to clinic in August.

"The girls had to develop a large amount of balance and coordination for the stunts and the boys had to develop muscles," said Dwayne Willoughby.

The five girl football cheerleaders and the five finalists combined energies to make up the basketball cheering squad which was new to Rogers this year.

Another addition to Rogers cheerleading unit was the selection of five swimming-wrestling cheerleaders.

Mrs. Charlene Goodson, sponsor, commented, "With the new addition of cheerleaders there have been increased problems, but I feel that it is good to have more students contributing to school spirit."

"If you drop me just one more time, Dwayne!" scowls senior Connie Johnson as junior Dwayne Willoughby attempts the intricate motions of a cheer during summer practice.

Who's Who names leaders in participation

Involvement was the common denominator in the selection of students for Who's Who. Although their activities were as varied as their personalities, each was involved in the total effort to make 1969 a successful school year.

The student body honored 18 outstanding leaders this year, including the two AFS students, Hilkki Hemmiki from Finland and Masayuki Sawa from Japan. Yuki became a part of Rogers' tradition by being elected "Friendliest Boy."

The candidates were nominated by members of the Student Council for their participation in school activities and their scholastic record. A Who's Who Committee of juniors made the final selections. This year's committee, under the direction of Student Council sponsor, Mr. Jim Burton, was Gary Bryant, chairman, Jerry Nottingham, Susie Dunaway, and Carolyn Steele. After receiving the committee's recommendation, each candidate was approved by a special faculty group.

A picture displayed in the showcase in Main Hall together with a list of activities, a page in Lariat, recognition in the May assembly for contributions to school and to fellow students were rewards for members of this traditional group.

Top achievers gain rewards for excellence

Each year the leaders of Will Rogers are recognized for excellent achievement and outstanding school service.

Representing the top one per cent of all seniors in the nation, Jan Ratcliff and Jody Woods earned the title of National Merit Finalist. They competed in the Scholastic Aptitude Test of College Board last fall after participation in the National Merit Scholarship Program as juniors. Their selection was based on test scores, recommendations, and a comprehensive application completed by the students, themselves.

The Shaw Award winners were nominated by teachers in each department. A faculty scholarship committee tallied nominations and named five, Janet La Forge, Don Lawrence, Rick Melling, Jan Ratcliff, and Jody Woods to receive the honor and a check for $100 in a May assembly.

A Shaw Award recipient must be a senior with high personal standards, who has excelled in one or more departments, and who shows promise of academic success.

The May assembly also honored ten outstanding students for time and efforts given to school projects. Nominated by teachers and fellow students for leadership in sports, co-curricular organizations, publications, music, and student productions, these leaders were screened by a special faculty group. Each received an engraved mahogany chest, representing the highest honor that can be given to a Roper.

Ropers honor Debbie, Yuki as friendliest

Will Rogers is noted for its friendly atmosphere so it is appropriate to award the title of "friendliest" to a boy and girl each year. The selection, sponsored by Student Council, highlights Will Rogers Week and winners are announced in asembly and are presented with gold engraved medalions.

Chosen as Friendliest Boy and Girl for 1968-69 were seniors Yuki Sawa and Debbie Wilson. Yuki is Rogers' exchange student from Japan, a member of Chorale, and a Student Council representative. Debbie is '69 Band Queen, senior class Student Council representative, a member of Round-Up Board and Lariat staff.

This year's finalists were Ray Buckner, Danny Cheshewalla, Debbie Fleak, Connie Johnson, Paul Mehl, Linda Naifeh, Robert Taylor, Yuki Sawa, Kathy Walker and Debbie Wilson.

Winners, Debbie Wilson and Yuki Sawa, Japan's exchange student, strike a friendly pose.

Finalists for friendliest boy and girl are Linda Naifeh, Paul Mehl, Debbie Fleak, Danny Cheshewalla, Debbie Wilson, Yuki Sawa, Robe Taylor, Connie Johnson, Ray Buckner, and Kathy Walker.

Students elect Alan Caperton as ugliest man

The Ugly Man Contest is sponsored annually by the cheerleaders to raise money to enable them to attend the summer clinic at Southern Methodist University.

In January each homeroom submitted a candidate and the six boys receiving the most nominations became the finalists. Six "pigs" were displayed in main hall to allow students to vote. The ballots were pennies and the boy having the most money in his "piggy bank" won.

Alan Caperton was awarded the Ugly Man trophy by Diane White at the Turnabout Dance sponsored by the Stirrups on January 31. Alan is a member of Chorale and is assistant editor of School Life and Hoof Prints.

Ropers view an assortment of assemblies

Assemblies brighten the weekly routine of study at Rogers. Under the direction of Miss Doris Niles, speech teacher, the assemblies are usually presented on alternate Fridays, featuring students and often distinguished guests.

The first assembly greeted the sophomores and welcomed back the upperclassmen. All clubs and organizations were introduced.

As part of Destination Discovery, the Little Symphony of Tulsa Philharmonic presented a program of both classical and modern music.

In November Phil Driscoll and the New Design rocked out with new sounds for the "Now Generation."

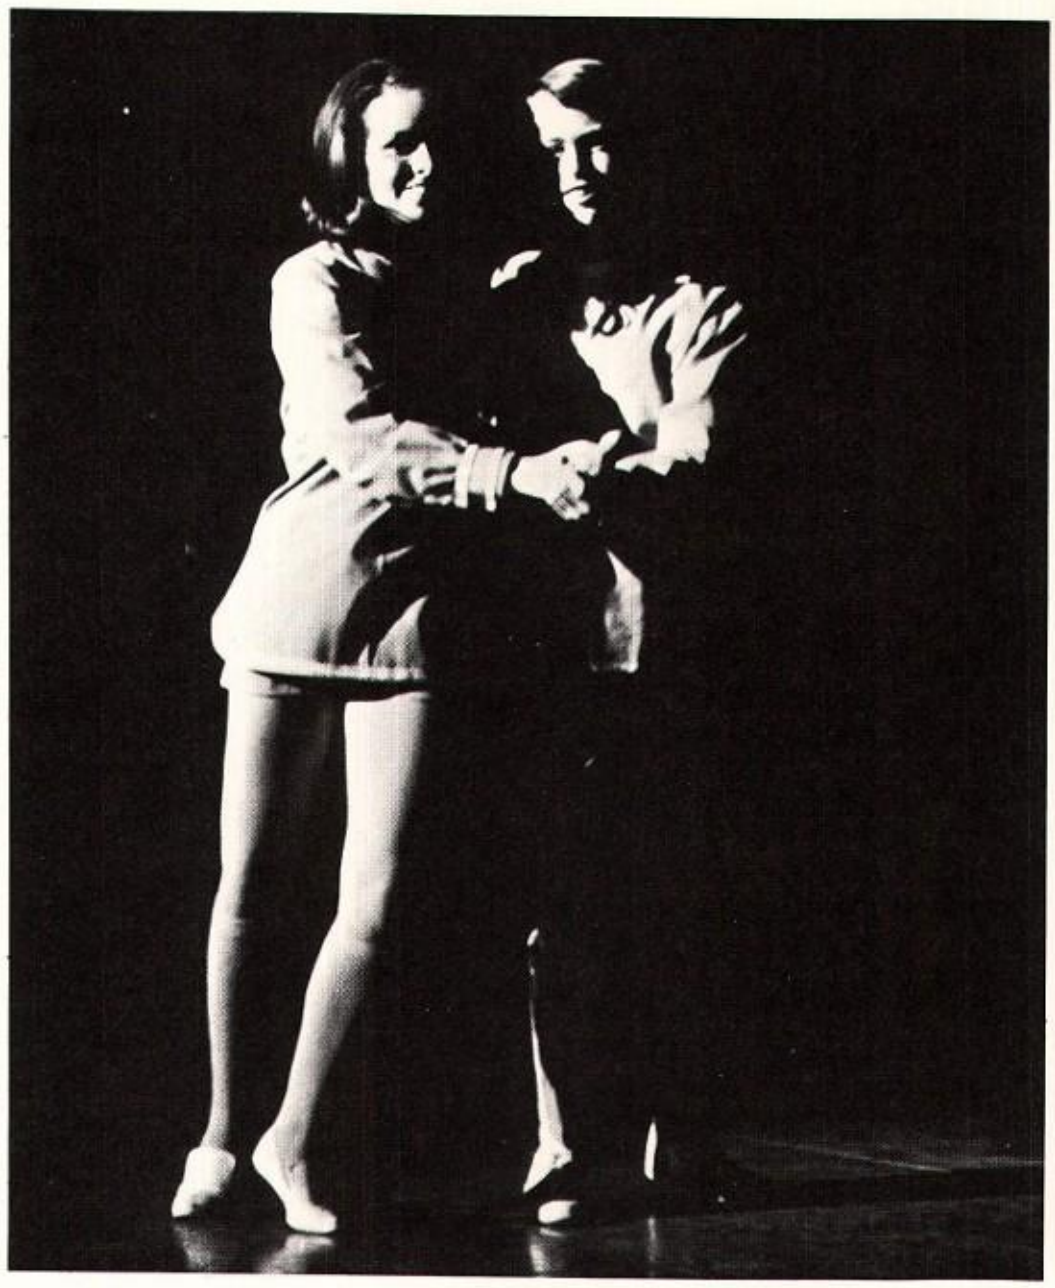
In January the Up with People troupe appeared on stage advocating a return to moral values.

Chorale's Pop Concert, presented in January, was thought by many students to be the most "rockin' " assembly held all year. They also presented the concert in an evening performance.

This year's Shaw and Tower Award presentations were combined in a May assembly. The Tower Awards are given to students in honor of school service. Shaw Awards are based on academic achievements and school service.

"'Twas the night before Christmas," sing Santa's helpers in the IUC Christmas assembly.

Enthusiastic Ropers, along with Pep Band, exhibit support in pep assembly before Rogers-Hale upset, 68-60.



Jill Krumme and Paul Crabb dance Soul Limbo in the Space Shapes scene.

Round-up '69 takes 'shape' for production

Round-Up 1969 took on a uniqu appearance for "The Shape of Thing to Come." Five performances climaxe the creative efforts contributed by stu dents to produce this all-school spec tacular.

Scene directors for Round-Up wer Mandy Miller, Margo Raimond, Te Bachmann, Mary Porterfield, Brend Sailor, and Sue Hodge.

"Shapettes," the Intro dancers an singers, opened the show. "Anima Shapes," the first scene, featured "Bab Elephant Walk" by Stage Band unde the direction of Mike Thompson, stu dent director.

Mike Childers and Jerry Notting ham, "Motley Fools," introduced "Mot ley Shapes," a collection of Shape spearean literary feature acts.

Out of the night ... onto the Roper stage, cha-cha egg-headed moon people, to the sound of "Cherry Pink and Apple Blossom White."

Masayuki Sawa portrayed a Japanese Hamlet, with apologies to Will Shakespeare concluded this part of the program.

A wistful "Cast Your Fate to the Wind" was performed by harp, vibraphone, flute, and cello quartet.

Harpist Tony Caron accompanied Jan Ratcliff in the Graceful Shape ballet solo.

Teresa Stout, Rosalind Rains, Jill Krumme, Becki Harrison, and Debbie Fleak, 1969 Round-Up models, were featured in "Mod Shapes." Gary Bryant and the cast ended the scene with a routine called "Shape Watching."

"Space Shapes," lunar variety, brought Apollo 8, tourists, astronauts, and moon monsters to the Roper stage. Moon tourists, "The Cast of Thousands," blasted off for exciting adventures on earth's lunar neighbor.

During the scene, Janet and Judy Gibbons teamed up as "Identical Shapes." Following them were a wild group of "extraordinary" dancing shapes.

The space capsule launched the show back to earth for the "finale." Visions of earth closed the show on a patriotic note, with a verbal salutation to the best loved shape, this country, given by Paul Mehl. A final tribute to America was Chorale's presentation of "This Is My Country."

Jan Ratcliff displays Terpsichorean talent during Motley Shapes scene.

Diane White and Billi McPherson fear the coming of the "Viper."

Judy and Janet Gibbons discover their identical shapes on the moon.

Seniors beat different drum for class play

"Hi ya cats! How's the Meloreeny Jive."

Mike Moore's Royal Barnhill in the senior play is representive of the colorful characterizations presented against the plain background.

A modern drama with classical Greek influence A Different Drummer was performed on October 10 and 12 under direction of Miss Doris Niles, speech department head and Sue Hodge, student director.

"Close co-operation of all participants added to modern techniques, skillful acting and abstract scenery combined to make this year's play a profitable success," according to Sue.

The play used every means of communication. Film strips, recordings, actual instruments and three choruses were employed to contribute to audience interpretation and receptive viewers agreed that all effects together with the creative ability of cast made the off beat play an unique experience.

Juniors pick period piece; make money

The junior class production of Oliver Goldsmith's She Stoops to Conquer had something for everyone—comedy, a complicated plot, difficult dialogue, and colorful period costumes. Presented November 21 and 23 the play, an abridged version, provided an example of a classic English farce for drama enthusiasts.

The scenery was simple, in contrast to the costumes which were rented at a cost of $200.

When asked why he chose the play, Mr. Ken Brown, director and speech teacher, said, "This play is done by many college drama departments, and even though it is difficult, we felt it would be rewarding to perform."

Ending on a happy note after many trials and errors, the play was both artistic and a financial success.

For the annual Will Rogers Week assembly, the orchestra accompanied Chorale in the production of Roy Ringwald's "Song of America." This assembly commemorated Will Rogers' birthday, American Education Week, and Veteran's Day.

On December 6, the concert band performed for the National Honor Society State Convention in Tulsa. Besides marching at all home football games, the Roper band went by chartered bus to the out of town games in Bartlesville and Muskogee. Members also marched in the Tulsa State Fair Parade and the Christmas Parade.

Students sold magazine subscriptions and helped parents sell fruit cakes for money to purchase new uniforms, music, and fiber glass basses and other instruments.

Twirlers add blazing batons, new uniforms

Majorettes wearing brilliant blue and gold sequinned outfits performed the unique fire baton twirling act before spectators during halftime activities at the Memorial-Rogers football game.

The twirlers highlighted the year by participating in the state fair and Christmas parades and football halftime shows.

This year's majorettes Janice Steele, Brenda Reese, Donna Hoffman, and Valarie Woods, under the direction of Carl Barnett, band director, were chosen in the spring of 1968 for their twirling ability.

Lasso's train for routines with precision

Will Rogers' Lasso's Drill Team nearly doubled its size with 52 members this year. Under the guidance of Mrs. Charlene Goodson and Mrs. Nova Haught, they marched in the Tulsa State Fair and Christmas parades. In December, they assisted the Tulsa Jaycees in chaperoning needy children on Christmas shopping tours.

Seven of the officers attended a clinic at OU in June to learn new routines. In July, each member paid her own way for a trip to Six Flags Over Texas. Finances for bus trips to out of town games and other expenses were raised by bake sales and rummage sales.

Chorale gives pop assembly; highlights year

Under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Geer, new Roper teacher, the Will Rogers Chorale presented its most outstanding program, the pop concert, on January 31, 1969. It featured such selections as "Windy," "Sounds of Silence," and a medley from "West Side Story." A folk group composed of Chorale members performed "Homeward Bound."

With emphasis on modern music, the Chorale performed such tunes as "By the Time I Get to Phoenix" and a medley from "Annie Get Your Gun" in its fall concert. Not neglecting the more serious side of music, they included "Concerto in G Minor" by Saint-Saens in their program.

A favorite entertainment of various civic clubs, Chorale also honored Will Rogers' birthday in November and performed the Christmas concert.

New director gives music new sounds

Will Rogers High School Choraliers began their busy schedule with the Thanksgiving assembly. The 70-voice choir presented "Almighty God of Our Fathers" and selections from "Annie Get Your Gun."

Under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Geer, Choraliers sang Haydn's "Great and Glorious," "Cry Out and Shout," and "Days of Wine and Roses" in Christmas assemblies and a combined evening program on December 12 with Mixed Chorus and Girl's Glee Club. Junior high concerts featured songs from "Fiddler on the Roof." Along with the other choral groups they performed Brahm's "Requiem" in the spring.

For fun and profit, they met in a basketball game with Chorale, had a car wash, a bake sale, a Christmas party, and a spring banquet and picnic.

Vocal groups provide outlets for creativity

Mixed Chorus and Girl's Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Geer, began the year's activities with rehearsals for their combined evening program with Choraliers on December 12.

The 56 member Mixed Chorus performed "Oh Sing Ye to the Lord," "Americana," and "Carol of the Drum" on the Christmas program.

Girl's Glee Club, with 45 members, presented "Hear the Sledges with the Bells," "A Choral Prayer," and Brahm's "Questions" in the Christmas concert. Along with Choraliers and Chorale, they sang Brahm's "Requiem" in spring concerts.

Lariat staff comments on 'Will's World'

To create a new and vibrant image yet retain the All-American rating, was the 1969 Lariat staff's challenge. Nine Lariats have received this rating, the highest award by the National Scholastic Press Association.

Last spring, the newly selected staff members chose "Will's World" as a theme.

Meeting four deadlines in six months required extra work and sacrifice from staff members, but the results proved to be worth the effort.

Staff members attended the fall convention of the Oklahoma Inter-Scholastic Press Association at Oklahoma University and the Press Day at Tulsa University in May.

Hoof Prints, School Life, record events

Chronicling the Rogers' news scene was the hardworking School Life and Hoof Prints staff, who competed with each other for inches in the 500 Club (formerly the 800 Club). The student writing 500 or more inches of printed copy won this coveted plaque. Staff members were assigned positions ranging from editor-in-chief to roving reporter. Everyone contributed to the production of columns, "Ramblin' On" and "Rogers at Random." Herald Givens and Alan Caperton wrote "Fearless" column for School Life.

The staff went to Norman in April for the Oklahoma Inter-scholastic Press Conference and attended Press Day at Tulsa University in May.

11-J's acquire, practice skills for publication

Last spring, 33 sophomores were selected to partcipate in 11-J's. As juniors, they enrolled in journalism to learn the fundamentals of newswriting. They learned to apply these in writing news, sports, and feature stories.

Mrs. JoAnn Ragsdale taught the course in addition to sponsoring the Lariat and School Life staffs. She instructed the 11-J's in yearbook techniques such as copywriting, page layouts, and headline counting.

In the spring, after completing nearly a year in journalism, the students began writing for School Life and Hoof Prints. They also made layouts and met deadlines for a hypothetical paper.

After a yearbook unit they had to choose either Lariat or School Life for next year's assignment.

Will Rogers Week and the Christmas Faculty Tea were also Student Council-sponsored events.

Western Day, complete with costumes, was a part of the week of November 4-8 honoring Will Rogers. During Will Rogers Week, the council supervised a roping contest and a door-decorating contest.

The Christmas Faculty Tea was held December 17 before school in the cafeteria. Each teacher and counselor was escorted by a student council member. Members also held an annual ninth grade breakfast in April.

Besides sponsoring many activities, Student Council sent delegates to the twenty-eighth annual Association of Student Councils, held November 14-16 in Woodward, Oklahoma.

Stirrups help less fortunate sponsor dance

Stirrups, Will Rogers' spirited pep club, initiated many activities this year.

In December, members helped the JayCees by chaperoning under-privileged children on a shopping trip to a local department store.

The girls sponsored the annual Ugly Man Dance, which was held January 31 in the gym after a Rogers-Edison basketball game.

During the football and basketball seasons, Stirrups, including cheerleaders, sold spirit ribbons. The ribbon sales help to send cheerleaders to the SMU cheerleading clinic each summer.

Besides decorating every Friday before a football game, Stirrups introduced a new mascot, "Willie Roper," a unique symbol of school spirit.

They also participated in half-time ceremonies for Rogers' homecoming at Skelley Stadium.

Club sponsors talent show for AFS'ers

The IUC Christmas Assembly, the only fund raising program for AFS students, featured Christmas activities of almost every country.

Yuki Sawa, AFS student from Japan, sang "My First Lonely Night" in Japanese. Hilka Hemminki, AFS student from Finland, led other IUC members in a rousing Finnish dance.

Using Christmas assembly donations, IUC had a Christmas party in the home of Mrs. Louise Brazier, sponsor. The AFS students also received farewell presents at the end of the year.

Mr. Elliott Round-Tree, history teacher, who was a member of the Peace Corps in Ethiopia, showed his films at one of IUC's general meetings.

Chapter hosts county meets, Rogers 18'ers

Rogers' chapter hosted the second semester meetings of the Tulsa County Council of Junior Red Cross. Representatives from all Tulsa schools attended one meeting each month.

This year the Red Cross conducted its annual enrollment drive which totaled $200 in donations. Contrary to previous campaigns, this year's drive was held for only four days, instead of the traditional two weeks. Homerooms with 100 per cent participation were eligible to enter one contestant in the annual wagon race; those with 150 per cent entered two contestants. The race was held on March 7.

Red Cross also sponsored the yearly "blood-letting" club for students 18 years old, who were interested in donating their blood to the blood bank. The Rogers 18'ers Club had the largest enrollment in Tulsa for 1969.

At Christmas the Roper chapter decorated a Christmas tree for the childrens ward at St. John's Hospital.

Ropers excel in production of dramatics

Thespians is a club of active students, those who take part in Class plays, Round-Up, assemblies, and in speech class projects. Interested students strive for 10 points which is the minimum number to qualify for membership. Two Thespian initiations were held this year, the first, on January 28, was a tea honoring the new initiates. The second initiation, a banquet, held at Borden's Cafeteria, featured the presentation of such awards as "best actor," "best actress," "most altruistic" and "best Thespian" to the deserving senior members of Thespians. The club was sponsored by Miss Doris Niles.

Heading Thespians, Rogers' honorary dramatics club, for 1968-69 are Eilee Flaherty, Margo Raimond, Paul Mehl and Sue Hodge.

Board works many months on Round-Up

Round-Up Board, chosen by application and teacher recommendation, wrote, planned, and rehearsed nine months before the first performance, on February 25, of "The Shape of Things," the thirtieth Annual Round-Up.

Headed by president, Jack Steel, the 54 member board met during the summer months to select the theme, Shapes, and prepare a special September bulletin for prospective participants.

Round-Up tryouts, held the first week in December, marked the beginning of late planning sessions, long rehearsals and numerous details.

The thirtieth Round-Up was a break with the past twenty-nine shows. Mod clothes, outer space scenes, psychedelic lighting and abstract scenery were significant changes.

A publicity "first" was the special Round-Up paper which was devoted entirely to the production.

An extra treat was the all-day rehearsal while the rest of the student body attended classes.

Club members attend banquet, theme, L'amour

Approximately 30 enthusiastic second and third year French students met once a month to travel France through slides and participate in French skits they composed.

Aided by Mrs. Nancy Otto, sponsor, and Mrs. Betty Jean Buckley, co-sponsor, members of Le Cercle Francais began a project to find French pen pals. By this communication, the group hoped to gain information and understanding of the modern French teenager.

The club had a formal "L'Amour" banquet February 12. They were entertained by The Young Realm, a folk group, and Herve Pitard, a foreign exchange student from France, who gave an account of his French home life and answered questions.

Roman group serves feast in costume

Led by sponsors Mrs. Martha Edards and Mrs. Gerry Johnson, Latin Club traveled to Bartlesville in December to take part in the state activities of the Junior Classical League of which Rogers' Latin Club is a member. Jody Woods, president, was elected State Parliamentarian. In March, Northwest Classen hosted a state planning meeting at which the Latin Club competed in contests. The state convention was held in Norman in late April.

At home the 65 members held a "Get-Aquainted" meeting at the first of the school year for new Latin students.

The annual Roman Banquet, complete with costumes, was held January 5. The students also planned a farewell picnic in May at Turner Park.

Science Club explores stars in planetarium

This year the 16-member Science Club had a meeting of the minds—a joint meeting with Medical Club members. The students were literally "spellbound" after a noted hypnotist spoke to them on "Hypnosis: Assets and Evils."

The Science Club took a field trip to the Kirkpatrick Planetarium in Oklahoma City. At the Planetarium the visitors saw a simulated sky showing the stars and planet positions. Later in the year the club delegates went to Norman to tour the OU Science Department. They also attended the TU Science Field Day. An additional project of the club was building a simple six-inch lense telescope.

The place was room 410; the season was Christmas; the scene was a room filled with food, a lighted tree, and a feeling of charity; the characters were the 33 members of Medical Club and sponsors, Mr. John Hurn and Mrs. Judy Chandler; the action was that of giving at Christmas, a yearly project of the club, which annually adopts a "Christmas family."

At regular meetings, noted doctors and special guests spoke on such topics as "New Techniques of Eye Surgery" and "Plastic Surgery: Before and After." The Tulsa County Medical Society Auxiliary sponsored the meetings.

This year the Will Rogers Medical Club was named a charter member of the Oklahoma Council for Health Careers, which was a newly formed association in Oklahoma.

WR Math Club holds initiation, tours Pan Am

Exploring the world of space, studying the dimensions of time, and learning to lie with statistics were projects of the members of Mu Alpha Theta and their sponsor, Mrs. Virginia Parks.

The Club began the year with its annual initiation dinner, held October 26, at the Southroads Picadilly Cafeteria. Dr. John Harris, a Tulsa University Math professor, spoke to the group on "Careers in Math Fields." On January 31, Mu Alpha Thetas toured the Pan American Computer Center in Tulsa. On this tour, they saw demonstrations of the complex computer network of this large company. Selected representatives of the club also attended the Hale Regional Convention at Oral Roberts University in the spring.

Printing Club visits plants, learns skills

"Exposure to business world is very important for students," remarked Mr. Eliseo Sanchez when asked the purpose of the Vocational Printing Club, which he sponsors.

In an effort to expose club members to the world in which they will be working, Mr. Sanchez and class visited various printing plants in Tulsa during the year.

"We're a service organization" stated president Donald O'Neill, listing as projects class play tickets and programs.

Other officers were Mike Dobb, vice-president and Don Pifer, advertising board member.

Rogers has one of the three high school print shops in the Tulsa school system and frequently does work for other schools.

"We try to help out the other schools when we can," said Mr. Sanchez, "it's the least we can do, and it's good experience for the boys."

"Look Richard, if you keep your fingers about an inch and a half from this lever, it can bite you!" advises Printing instructor Mr. Sanchez to dubious Richard Parnell.

Students join before school chess games

Twenty-four Ropers, meeting every morning before school, could be seen challenging, checkmating, and stalemating each other. Realizing that winning at chess takes more than mechanical movement, Chess Club members perfected skills which would stymie an unsuspecting partner.

Steve Clark, president of Chess Club, controlled the first board. To hold the first board one must accept challengers from the lower-ranked second, third, and fourth boards of the "A" team. Steve's fellow officer, David Oxford, treasurer, held the second board.

Top-ranked players met other high schools in Saturday matches during January.

Boys provide backstage skill for programs

Round-Up, Rogers' most enthusiastic production, was also the most important project for the 24 boys in Mr. Byron Lasater's Stagecraft Club. Members built sets, maneuvered curtains and backdrops, and provided special lighting effects to help insure a professional performance. They also served during class plays and assemblies.

Backstage skills were not the only assets gained, according to the sponsors. The boys also learned how to follow instructions and to work as a team.

The group celebrated a year of study and work with a party in May.

FBLA makes Tulsa Firm study project

FBLA, Future Business Leaders of America, helps to develop competent, agressive business leadership. It also helps students in creating more interest and understanding in the intelligent choice of business occupations.

In 1968-69 these future business leaders visited IBM, touring this computer center and learning about the complexity of this mechanical network. Delegates made field trips to the post office and the Vocational Technical Center. Other activities included a Christmas party for the children at Hissom. They also made favors for local nursing homes.

COE unites work, study in office job

Cooperative Office Education is an elective course for qualified seniors interested in office occupations.

Under the direction of Mrs. Beverly Archer and Mrs. Phyllis Epps, 31 students attended school half days and worked in offices of business firms half days. They not only practiced valuable skills, but acted as public relations agents for Rogers.

They prepared mailing lists for the band, copy for school plays, and material for NHS. Social activities included an initial get-acquainted party, a Christmas breakfast for teachers and counselors, and the annual Bosses' Breakfast for employees in April.

FCA promotes development of body, spirit

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is an organization for boys who exhibit Christian ideals in school sports and competition.

The 42 members met each week. Guest speakers spoke on the benefits of Christian living. The club promoted the idea of bringing Christ into each individual's life.

An "Athlete of the Week" award was given to those outstanding athletes who reflect Christian living.

VICA enters in local, state, national meets

A bumpy ride under an October sky, laughter, a camp fire and hay began the yearly activities of VICA, Rogers' chapter of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America. Miss Loretta Shidler, cosmetology teacher and VICA sponsor, accompanied the girls.

Following the hayride, state and national conventions headed the bill of fare for VICA activities this year. The club sponsored delegates at the Eastern District Career Day held in McAlester on March 21. Officers for the Eastern District were elected and the Easter District Sweetheart was chosen. Ramona Shellhammer, Rogers senior, served as the Eastern District Parliamentarian for 1968-69.

The Rogers seniors and two juniors were selected from inter-school contests to represent the school in the Career Day competition, held May 5-6 in Oklahoma City. These representatives entered cosmetology and hair styling events, competing for state awards.

October 25 was the date for the State Leadership Conference also held in McAlester. Officers of VICA clubs over the state learned new ideas for social and competitive activities.

Rogers will send representatives to the National VICA Convention on June 22-25, to compete in contests similar to those of the state convention.

VICA stresses leadership through election and training of officers, participation through social and business activities, and competition through state and school contests.

Officers for this year were Rebekah Harrison, president; Anita Jackson, vice president; Janet Ballard, secretary; and Gail Brand, treasurer.

Cross Country carries torch to season wins

Roper cross country team turned in an outstanding performance despite having only three returning lettermen out of a squad of ten.

In the first meet of the season, the Rogers team placed second in a triangular meet with Kelly and Memorial. The top runners for Rogers were seniors Blake Woolf, John Westbrook, and Ken Schroeder. Junior prospects for next year's team are Mark Malloy, John Pringle, and John Holderman.

Coach Lingenfelter remarked, "The boys improved at each meet and proved to be capable runners."

'B' footballers top Wildcats, corral Braves

Inexperience caused some ups and downs throughout the year, but close victories over Central, 8-6, and Memorial, 22-20, made the season a success.

There were numerous standouts on the '68 squad. Lineman Mike Morris, David Edgar, Charley McIntosh, and Robert Duncan received honorable recognition. Lineman Tommy Stockton is applauded for running a punt 80 yards to win the Central game for the Ropers. Backfield players Loren Roth, Chris Walker, Don Baily, and Stan Rhinehart are recognized for outstanding performances in all games.

O-7 players choose Taylor Back of Year

Winning by leaps and bounds and interceptions, Ropers gridders set the pace for the 1968 season. Driving a hard bargain, the Ropers whipped North Little Rock, Arkansas, 19-13, in the hardest game of the season. Next, Salina, which was ranked number one in Kansas, met with a stalemate as the determined Ropers held their ground with a score of 14-14. The Ropers then completed their task of defeating our homecoming foe, Edison, 10-7, as they held them on their own ten yard line for the last four downs of the game.

The Ropers climaxed the season by stomping Ponca City, the number one team in the conference, 19-16. The Roper offense drew a quick and mighty onslaught by scoring all points in the last minutes of the game.

Coach letters baker's dozen with Bonwell

Twelve basketball players were selected to receive letterman honors for the '68-'69 season. The effort and determination of the team, according to Coach Wendell Wilkinson, was instrumental in his decision to award letters to the entire squad.

In addition to John Harris, Jeff Martin, Mark Sizemore, and Steve Stanfield, all of whom were returning lettermen, Coach Wilkinson lettered one senior, six juniors, and one sophomore.

The experience of coaches, Wilkinson and John Walker, and of the seniors, backed by underclassman support, gave the Ropers a fighting combination but only an average season record.

Senior story — rags to riches to graduation

The time—1969. The place—Will Rogers High School. As the lights came up on the 1968-69 school year, we saw the so-called dirt poor Class of 1969 take its place as the leader of the Royal House of Rogers. Mrs. Blanche Cordes and Mr. Ernest Darling, counselors, plus Miss Sandra Doolin, class sponsor, aided in the quest for the class goal—money!

Money came from a Tulsa first. The senior class presented A Different Drummer as its play and made over one thousand dollars from it, as well as prompted another high school to try the same play.

Seniors elected Debbie Fleak, football queen; Debbie Wilson, band queen; and Kathy Walker, student council president. John Latta, however, was senior class president, keeping the girls from making it a clean sweep.

Commencement exercises were held in May, along with the senior banquet and the event of the year, the Senior Prom, and the Royal House of Rogers changed hands again.

Senior class officers are, bottom to top: Debbie Wilson, stud. coun.; Roz Rains, soc. chrmn. David Anderson, treas.; Richard Blase, vice-pres.; Linda Naifeh, sec.; John Latta, pres.

Class of 1970 officers guide year's projects

With its newly acquired rise in power, the class of 1970 launched its second year at Rogers under a long line of leaders, including David Wing and his cabinet, Mrs. Bessie Miller and Mr. Wesley Howl, counselors, and Mrs. Betty Sprankle, class sponsor. As their first movement, juniors joined hands in saying "Howdy" to the sophomores.

Firmly established as a class to be reckoned with, juniors turned their thoughts toward culture. The class presented She Stoops to Conquer, a period comedy.

Next came the Junior Prom, along with election of senior class officers, selection of Boys and Girls State delegates, and election of band queen and attendants.

Finally, as the year came to a close, juniors found themselves wearing senior rings. Luckily, they had the summer to deflate their heads.

Advising staff, class officers direct sophs

Last September, 959 wide-eyed, enthusiastic sophomores stumbled into the social activities of Will Rogers. The future class of 1971 quickly chose Mark Amstutz president and prepared to mold themselves into "typical" sophomores. Facing them in the right direction were Mrs. Allyne Verkins, Mr. Donald Moore, and Mr. Robert Nelson, counselors, and Mr. Steve Carlson, class sponsor.

Overcoming their fears and adjusting to ridicule from upperclassmen, they became more socially minded and activated a different kind of class social, called "Soul Section," as their first joint effort. As Round-Up rolled around, all talented sophomores wanted to get into the act, and with this desire for the theater came the presentation of their class play, which also stimulated thoughts of financial success.

When leadership changed hands with the election of junior class officers in the Spring, these youngsters were ready to greet incoming sophomores with the "warm welcome" that they themselves received, and so ended the first chapter in the "1971 Story."

In Memoriam

Will Rogers lost a dedicated teacher in December when Miss Faye Laird, a member of the English department, died. Before her illness prevented strenuous activity, she spent many hours leading the Student Council locally and nationally, and was the recipient of the coveted Freedom's Foundation Award. In 1962 she became a member of the Will Rogers faculty. Here, she was a member of the committee which wrote the philosophy of Will Rogers High School.

To teaching, as well as all other tasks, Miss Laird devoted her rich creativity, her conscientious efforts, and her sensitive, enthusiastic service. She knew the secret of work and the pleasure of working. The Miss Laird, that her family knew, that her students knew was a person preoccupied—preoccupied with what she called "man's most valuable creation"—the next generation. Her life consisted primarily of one process, the accumulation and communication of knowledge. To Miss Laird time was of great importance because knowledge was of great importance. Lost time meant lost opportunity for learning.

"This preoccupation was her life; she lived it well."

Miss Faye Laird
